

Participants connected with teacher education, teacher training and schools will produce guidance and resources for teachers and policy makers. The goal is to share and promote innovative practices and persuade decision makers of the importance of geo-media and state-of-the-art learning developments. A network of accredited national and regional experts will act as multipliers, working with teachers and educators in their own countries. Currently, the European Centre has 76 partners from 22 European countries, including schools, teacher education and training institutions as well as national Ministries of Education and European associations. New members, especially from countries that are not yet involved, are welcome to join. Find further information on the network and how to join at www.digital-earth.eu.
